The fight started with the introduction of the resolution by Mr. Bond and others. Bend was the first speaker. He had a good word to say for the constitution of Tennessee. He declared that the provision requiring legislators to vote on amendments submitted before their election was intended to give the people an opportunity to express their sentiment. He cited the ratification of the Fourieranta amendment in 1886 as the direct cause of his activity in the sufficient of the adoption of the provision in the constitution of 1870. He said that the people still think well of the constitution, notwithstanding it is old, because twice during the past five years they have refused to call a massitut. people still think well of the constitution, nowithhatanting it is old, because twice during the past five years they have refused to call a constitutional convention. He made a splendid argument. The motion to table, made by Miller, of Hamilton, cut off debate, and then Miller wanted to speak. Finally he was made to understand what was in the way and on advice of Speak, er Walker, who explained to him that if he wanted to speak he must first withdraw his motion to table, did so and spoke at length. Mr. Riddick declared that in substance and effect the result of favorable action on the resolution would be to impugn the wisdom of the supreme court of the United States. Hall, of Dixon county, continued to make points of order against /Mr. Riddick in order to hold him to a consideration of a pending amendment to the resolution, but Mr. Riddick said he knew nothing of parliamentary procedure, had not looked into a book of rules since he left college, which he admitted was many years ago, but he said he knew what was fair and what was unfair and what was right and what was unfair and what was fair and what was unfair and what was right and what was vong. He waid he wanted to see the house do the fair thing and the right thing, and made a strong appeal for rejections.

A. McReynolds, passenger flagman for the Rock Island, was to answer such charges. McReynolds was arrested and docketed late Wednesday after complaint of a 14-year-old girl from Carlyle, Ark.

According to Lieut. A. L. Boyle and Detective Bill Hendricks, who arrested the man, he enticed the child away from the Grand Central station, took her for an auto ride and while passing through Oyerton park made improper advances to the girl. McReynolds, Lieut. Boyle says, has admitted making the alleged endeavor.

The child came to Memphis from Arkansas Tuesday night to visit a family living in North Memphis. Her friends did not meet her at the station. While waiting there for them the girl attracted attention of the flagman, officers allege, and he made her acquaintance. After securing his auto the man took the girl to the residence in North Memphis but, Boyle declares, no one was at home. From there McReynolds, the officers charge rode with the girl to a pig stand near Overton park. When coming back to the city through the child. She resisted and succeeded in frightening McReynolds Boyle alleges, so that he returned to town with her.

After suggesting that he take her to a hotel, which she refused, McReynolds jeft her at the station. She finally got in touch with her friends. Wednesday complaint was made to police and description of the alleged assailant was secured.

New Hair Growth After BALDNESS HAIR TGROWN ON MR. BRITTAIN'S BALD HEAD BY

INDIANS' MYSTERIOUS HAIR GROWER My head at the top and back was absolutely bald. The scalp was shiny. An expert said that as he thought the hair roots were extinct, and there was no hope of my ever having a new hair growth. Yet now, at an age ever 66, I have a luxuriant growth of soft, strong, instrous hair! No trace of baldness. The pictures shown here are from my photographs.

Indians' Secret of Hair Growth

At a time when I had become discouraged at trying various hair lotions, tonics, specialists' treatments, etc., I came across, in my travels, a Cherokee Indian "medicine man" who had an elixir that he asseverated would grow my hair. Although I had but little faith, I gave it a trial. To my amazement a light fuzz scon appeared. It developed, day by day, into a healthy growth, and ere long my hair was as prolife as in my youthful days.

That I was astonished and happy is expressing my state of mind mildly. Obviously, the hair roots had not been dead, but were dormant in the scalp, awaiting the fertilizing potency of the mysterious pomade.

I negotiated for and came late possession of the principle for preparing this mysterious clixir, now called Kotaiko, and later had the recipe put into practical form by a chemist.

That my own hair growth was permanent has been amply proved. Many men and women, also chuldren, have reported satisfactory results from Kotaiko.

How YOU May Grow YOUR Hair

My honest belief is that hair roots rarely die even when the hair falls out through dandruff, fever, excessive dryness of the disorders. I have been told by experts their often when hair falls out the roots become imbedded within the scalp, covered by hard skin, so that they remain for a time like bulbs or seeds in a bottle which will grow when fertilized, Shampoos (which contain alkalis) and hair lottons which contain alcohol are enemies to the hair, as they dry it, making it britis. Kotalake contains those elements of nature which give new yitality to the scalp and hair.

PROVE FOR YOURSELF Get a box of the genuine Kotalko at a feliable druggist's $500.00 GUAPANTEE with each box. A small testing box of Kotalko (with testimonials, etc.) may be obtained by sending ten cents, silver or stamps, to my address below.
